OUR EXPERIENCE AT WEBBER WENTZEL

Mlungisi Mahlangu
Associate

“We cannot expect people to have respect for law and order until we teach respect to those we have entrusted to enforce those laws” - Hunter S. Thompson

Hunter S. Thompson was an ordinary man who lived a turbulent life. As a young man the death of his father thrust his family into poverty. He did not finish high school. He spent time in jail, being an accessory to a robbery. Later in life he struggled with alcohol and drug abuse, before committing suicide.

Despite the turbulence which engulfed him, a central theme in his understanding of the value and importance of integrity. A value which forms part of the coat of arms of Webber Wentzel.

I am an Associate in the Mergers and Acquisitions practice of Webber Wentzel. Having been born in Mamelodi during the turbulent 80's and being privileged to attend well-resourced former advantaged schools, I never imagined that I would be met with the experience that has greeted me at Webber Wentzel.

In my brief time at Webber Wentzel, I have formed part of teams that facilitated transactions throughout the continent. The training is, however, not limited to technical training. The firm has many programmes which challenge my understanding and conception of the law and the role which lawyers must play in facilitating justice and equity. These have included:

- the compulsory mentorship programme;
- the leadership network talks (network opportunities with leaders from across different walks of life);
- our participation in Business Place (a non-profit organisation where Webber Wentzel lawyers consult for free with entrepreneurs); and
- life coaching and diversity awareness training.

Having recently represented Webber Wentzel at the launch of the Africa Corporate Governance Network in Mauritius, I am all the more convinced that it is going to require institutions like Webber Wentzel whose commitment to individual and community development is unparalleled, to sustain the rise of what time magazine described just over a decade ago as the “Hopeless Continent”.

Lawyers occupy a delicate and privileged role in society, one which is best served through excellence, diversity and integrity - the guiding principles of Webber Wentzel.

Mlungisi Mahlangu

From a young age I was interested in the legal profession as it is an intellectually stimulating profession with a diverse range of career opportunities. I joined Webber Wentzel as a candidate attorney in January 2009 after obtaining my B.Com Law and LLB from the University of Johannesburg. During the penultimate year of my LLB, I participated in the firm's vacation work programme and experienced the firm's high performance and diverse culture and I knew I wanted to be a part of it.

During my first two weeks at the firm, I took part in the firm's induction programme. The purpose of the induction programme is to introduce new candidate attorneys to the various 'practice groups' within the firm as well as to the ethical and practical side of practicing law.

As a candidate attorney, I rotated through the firm's 'Dispute Resolution', 'Competition Law' and 'Banking & Finance' practice groups. The rotation policy is tremendously beneficial. It allows you to experience different areas of the law which ultimately enables you to make an informed decision about the area of the law you would like to specialise in.

I have benefitted from some of the finest training. The firm takes an active role in developing their junior professionals through extensive training programmes. This has been a combination of training facilitated by experienced and knowledgeable Webber Wentzel partners, along with international training courses that have been provided locally. The training equips you to perform well in your role and ensures that you remain competitive and relevant as a professional.

In 2011 I made the decision to focus on corporate law and joined the 'Banking & Finance' practice group. I have since been privileged to have been involved in some of the most exciting, high profile financing transactions in South Africa. I am also regularly involved in complex cross-border transactions which provide opportunities to interact with and learn from a diverse group of people.

What sets Webber Wentzel apart is the quality of its people and the nature of the legal matters that the firm secures as a result. Not only does this provide the opportunity to work with some of the finest legal minds, these experiences result in rapid development as a professional in a stimulating and dynamic environment where every day is interesting and challenging.

If you are seeking a challenging career, exposure to major deals and the opportunity to work with leading lawyers, Webber Wentzel should be your firm of choice.

Under African Skies

Words and music by P. Simon

CHAPTER ONE

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER

AND

A DREAM YOU DREAM TOGETHER IS A REALITY

The "YES" in the title of the exhibition symbolizes the way that Yoko Ono emphasizes the positive in her works and activities. The following quote illustrates that attitude: "YES" was my work and John encountered it and he went up the stairs and he looked at this word that said 'Yes'. At the time I didn't really think it would be taken so personally. But I don't really connect it with John as much as I connect it with my view of life. My view of life is the fact that there were many incredible negative elements in my life, and in the world, and because of that I had to conjure up a positive attitude within me in balance to the most chaotic ... and I had to balance that by activating the 'Yes' element. 'Yes' is an expression that I always carried and that I'm carrying."

Combined thinking leads to great action.
